Guide Price £350,000, Freehold

Property Description

Positioned on a spacious corner plot with lawned gardens on three sides in one of the most popular residential areas to the south of Moreton-in-Marsh, this detached single-storey, two bedroom true bungalow residence offers an excellent opportunity for those looking to develop a property to their own requirements with vacant possession on completion.

The property has a light and airy through living room with windows on three sides and patio doors leading on to the completely enclosed rear garden which has direct access to the property's single garage. The property currently has a separate kitchen and dining room to the rear which offers every opportunity to be opened in to one homely diner kitchen.

The property is warmed with gas fired central heating and Upvc double glazing and has a separate bathroom and wash room which, ideally, could be combined as one.

Fosseway Avenue is located on a level position, as is most of Moreton-in-Marsh, which makes the town popular for those looking to retire here. The avenue is a cul-de-sac which limits passing traffic but allows for pedestrian access at the end past some allotments to the Old Town in Moreton-in-Marsh and ultimately to the High Street. The town has two good quality supermarkets with two doctors surgeries, a community hospital and a beautiful tree-lined High Street with a wealth of shops, tea rooms, hostelrys and the all important railway station with links to Oxford and London Paddington. The town is five miles north of Stow-on-the-Wold, eight miles from Bourton-on-the-Water, six miles from Chipping Norton and nine miles from Broadway, all famous Cotswold attractions.
